

Abstract

The invention relates to a drug for oral vaccination, the drug containing an antigenically active substance and a gastric acid reducing substance as a combination preparation for joint or separate, simultaneous or time shifted, oral application for vaccination.

(Fig. 1)